RIS IA AND THE UNITED STATES .- IL WILL be seen by the subjoined translation from the Journal of St. Petersburg, of August 23, that the courtesies extended by our people to the officers of the Russian fleet under commend of Admiral Lessoffski have been officially acknowledged. The Journal says: Thursday last Contre-Admiral Lescoffeki, by command of the Emperor, and accou panied by the officers of the Russian equadron, lately la America, made a visit previous appointment-to the Legation of the United States at St. Pelersburg, for the purpose of expressing to the minister of hat power their cordial thanks for the unprecedented hospitalities shown them during their sojourn in that country. on appropriate address, uttered by Contre-Admiral Orieg, Chief of Staff of Ilis Imperial Highness the General Admiral, Georg Duke Constantine, on presenting the gal-

This speech was followed by an excellen allocation in English from Rear-Admiral Lessoffski, expressive of his acknowledgments and those of his officers, and all the men under his command, for the distinguisbel marks of friendship with which hey were honored during the whole time they were stationed in America.

llis Excellency the minister replied la erms of the warmest admiration of Ilis mperial Majesty, and of consideration for the brave and gentlemanly officers present and, furthermore, gave utterance to his desire and conviction that ne other tlvairies were ever possible between the two countries than such as are based upon the wish to surpass one another in the performance of reciprocal benefits. This courteous interview was terminated by some eloquent remarks, pronounced in the French language, by Mr. Bergh, Secretary of Legation, and the parties separated

THE INPLUENCE OF PETROLEUM IN AMER-ICA .- Writing on this subject in the Journal of Science, Dr. Draper, of New York,

The exact source of petroleum is, up to the present, uncertain-whether it has all been produced by distillation from bituminous coal (anthracite being formed at the same time), or whether it has resulted directly from the bituminous fermentation of marine plants, antedating the coal, and containing a large proportion of hydrogen. The amount thrown out by some of the wells is enormous. One of them ejected 3,740 barrels a day, three 1,000 barrels, and one 800 barrels. To "strike ile," has for rapidly growing wealthy. Transportation to market is effected by carrying i down the stream in vessels, many of which are merely lanks. Occasionally, when collisions occur, thousands of gallons are lost, floating away on the water. It is profloating dams, shaped like a V, with the point up stream. The effect that this illuminating agent has produced throughout the country is very striking. It has entirely displaced all other means of lightng except gas, and is used in cities by many who desire an absolutely steady light. The great desideratum is a perfect himneyless burner. The petroleum reuires a large amount of air for complete combustion of its carbon, and by no other means than a tube six or eight inches long has the supply been rendered sufficient. Although by the substitution of mica for glass the difficulty of breakage has, to a certain extent, been overcome, there is still great room for improvement. Kerosene, as the oil suited for hurning is called, has, in one sense, increased the length of life ansusements, and this is true of the winter sca30a. When Madge was a very little girl her father found her chubby hands full of the blossoms of a beautiful tea-rose, or which he had bestowed great care. "My dear, 'said he, 'didn't I tell you not to pick one of those flowers without leave?" "Yes, papa," said Madge, innocently, "but all these had feaves.
